

LATIN, WEEK 9

CEPT

TAKEN

concept	a general idea or thought about something exceptional	unusual, extraordinary imperceptible	barely noticeable preconception	An opinion formed before having enough information or experience inception	the beginning of something deception	the act of deceiving intercept	to stop something from reaching its intended destination conceptual	theoretical, abstract

TRACT

DRAG OR PULL

attractive	appealing
extract	to pull out by force distraction	something that draws attention away tract	pull
retract	to take back
protract	to prolong distraught	deeply upset and agitated intractable	not easily managed or manipulated

DICT

SAY, SPEAK, SPEECH

benediction	a good blessing in a religious service dictatorial	domineering; oppressively overbearing jurisdiction	(law) the right and power to interpret and apply the law malediction	a curse
diction	word choice
indict	to officially charge with wrongdoing or a crime edict	an official order
predict	to say what will happen before it occurs